Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 12/23/05 has been entered.

Response to Amendment

2. In the amendment filed 10/6/05, the following has occurred: claims 1, 7, and 13 have been amended. Claims 5-6, 11-12, and 17-28 are canceled, therefore, claims 1-4, 7-10, and 13-16 are presented for examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-4, 7-10, and 13-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Shub et al., U.S. Patent No. 6,807,530.

5. As per claim 1, Shub teaches a method for a bank to enable anonymous shipment by a shipper of a package containing goods purchased by a customer from a vendor for delivery to an address unknown to the vendor, the customer maintaining an account at the bank, the bank storing an address associated with the customer's account, the method comprising the steps of: the bank receiving an electronic draft from the customer for the purchase of goods along with a request for a package code for the package (see column 4, lines 40-46); the bank authenticating the customer and guaranteeing payment to the vendor on the draft only if the customer is authenticated and bank-imposed restrictions are met (see column 4, lines 43-46); if the customer is authenticated and bank-imposed restrictions are met, the bank generating the requested package code, the package code being devoid of delivery address information (see column 4, lines 49-54, i.e. x1); the bank sending the generated package code to the vendor, wherein the bank does not send any delivery address information for the package to the vendor (see column 5, lines 15-20); the bank generating a shipping identifier (i.e. x2) for the package that is associated with the generated package code and retrieving the stored address associated with the customer's account (see column 5, lines 31-34); and the bank sending the generated shipping identifier and the retrieved address associated with the customer's account at the bank to the shipper to enable the shipper, after picking up the package for shipment from the vendor, to associate the package code sent to the vendor with the shipping identifier, to identify the associated address as the delivery address of the package, and to ship the package directly from the vendor to the delivery address without divulging any delivery address from the package to the vendor (see column 5, lines 48-61, the Examiner interprets the first and second carrier to collectively be a "shipper," shipping the package from the vendor to the customer).

6. As per claim 2, Shub teaches the method of claim 1 as described above. Shub further teaches the package code includes at least one of a code number and machine-readable indicia expressing the code number (see column 4, lines 49-51).

7. As per claim 3, Shub teaches the method of claim 1 as described above. Shub further teaches the received request includes at least one of a request for authentication and an electronic draft for payment of at least one of the purchased goods and a shipping charge (see column 4, lines 40-46).

8. As per claim 4, Shub teaches the method of claim 1 as described above. Shub further teaches the receiving and sending steps are performed over a computer network (see column 1, lines 53-59).

9. Claims 7-10 and 13-16 recite substantially similar limitations, from the perspective of the shipper and vendor respectively, to claims 1-4, which is from the perspective of the bank.

Therefore, claims 7-10 and 13-16 are rejected for similar reasons as given above.

Response to Arguments

10. In the remarks filed 10/6/05, Applicants argue in substance that Tsuei fails to teach certain limitations of the amended claims. The Examiner agrees with Applicants and has, accordingly, withdrawn the rejections in view Tsuei. The Examiner has now relied upon a new grounds of rejection in view of Shub. Therefore, these arguments are now moot in view of the new grounds of rejection detailed above.
